Polish Flier Dies in Crash; French Return

FIRST OCEAN RACE ENDS IN DISASTER ON AZORES ISLAND

Major Idzikowski Burns To Death in Explosion Following Landing; Kubala Is Injured.

Paris, July 14.—(United News.)—The double failure of teams of Polish and French aviators on a trans-Atlantic air race from Paris to New York tonight had written an unusual chapter in the history of world aviation.

COSTE, BELLONTE RETURN TO PARIS

Chicago-Germany Flight Ends as "Untin Bowler" Is Crushed in Ice Off Iceland.

Overcoming the wide hazards of a flight through hail and rain, storms from the European coast to the tiny Azores islands in mid-Atlantic, the two Polish fliers in the Marshal Pilsudski met disaster at the moment it appeared they had reached a safe haven, official advisers reported.

Undaunted by the storms they met or by the fate of their Polish comrades, Coste and Bellonte said they plan to conquer the westward passage over the Atlantic when weather conditions are better. Coste, the veteran of many distance flights, expressed the greatest surprise at the mighty hazard which storms provide flying westward, but indicated that he is determined to make the flight on the day he has concentrated in the last few years.

MOTOR DRIVEN BY M. R. ADLER KILLS CAROLIN

Augusta, Ga., July 14.—(AP)—Robert L. Jones, 35, of Wagoner, S. C., died at a hospital here last night after being struck by an automobile driven by M. R. Adler, of Atlanta.

Young Boy Killed By Falling Bricks; Girl Dies in Auto

Morgan Mitchell Loses Life When Mantel Crumbles; Miss Nellie Branan Killed in Car.

Two persons, eight-year-old Morgan Mitchell, of East Point, who died when an avalanche of brick from a crumbling fireplace fell upon him, and Miss Nellie Branan, 18, 1184 Murphy avenue, killed when the steering rod of a motor car in which she was riding broke and hurled the auto into a ditch at Forest Park, lost their lives in accidents which capped a series over the metropolitan area Sunday.

In addition the usual run of Sunday traffic accidents with its attendant toll of injured was reported. Young Mitchell was crushed to death early Sunday morning when a recently-installed and uncompleted mantel and fireplace fell on him at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Mitchell at 206 South Martin street, East Point.

The boy had been playing alone in the front room of the house when his mother and father, who were in the kitchen, heard the crash of falling brick. They ran into the parlor and found Morgan buried under the avalanche of brick. They immediately pulled his body from the heap and called an ambulance of the A. C. Hemperly Company to rush him to the Grady hospital.

At the hospital it was found that he had suffered a fractured skull, concussion of the brain and severe internal injuries. He died shortly after arriving at the Grady.

Plan Another Try

Undaunted by the storms they met or by the fate of their Polish comrades, Coste and Bellonte said they plan to conquer the westward passage over the Atlantic when weather conditions are better. Coste, the veteran of many distance flights, expressed the greatest surprise at the mighty hazard which storms provide flying westward, but indicated that he is determined to make the flight on the day he has concentrated in the last few years.

Sympathy with the Poles was manifested by the fact that the two Polish fliers, Coste and Bellonte, were accompanied by a French flier, Question Mark, met terrific storms far out over the Atlantic and turned about and flew back to Paris, landing at Villa Boulay aerodrome at 9:22 a. m. today after a flight of 3,550 miles.

COMMITTEE TODAY TO HEAR APPEALS FOR STATE FUNDS

Needs of Institutions and Departments To Be Urged as Legislature Resumes Sessions.

The tedious task of hearing from all people of Georgia who want state appropriations for various institutions and departments will be faced Monday afternoon by the appropriations committee of the house when the Georgia legislature reconvenes after an adjournment since noon Friday.

The session of the committee will be held in the house of representatives hall at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon. The two branches of the legislature will reconvene at 11 o'clock Monday morning. Interesting developments of the day will be the renewal of the fight for the submission of the good roads bond issue to the people of the state for a vote and the discussion of numerous taxation measures.

Several plans of taxation will be considered by the ways and means committee of the house which will hold meetings Tuesday and Thursday afternoons in the office of the state comptroller. Arguments over the Boykin income tax bill were heard at a session of the committee Wednesday.

The gross income tax bill levies a tax of 1.5 of one percent on all goods sold at retail in the state and 5 of one percent on the gross income of public utility companies, amusement enterprises, theaters and motion picture companies, and automobile dealers. It is offered as an emergency tax measure.

Members of the two committees of the house and senate on constitutional amendments will meet in joint session Wednesday afternoon to hear arguments for and against the submission of a constitutional amendment to the people for a vote. The meeting will be held in the senate chamber at the capital.

It is expected that a bill introduced by the Fulton delegation for the sale of certain property by the city of Atlanta to the Goodrich Tire & Rubber Company will be signed by Governor Hardman during the week. This measure has passed both the house and senate and is now on the governor's desk awaiting his approval.

Execution of the threat contained in the petition would mean a serious and general disruption of operations of the colored hospital, a staff physician said, and the lives of many of the 220 patients now there would be gravely endangered should the controversy not be settled immediately.

Byron Warner Wins Success In Grand Opera in Italy

Above are seen Byron Warner (left), former director of Warner's Seven Aces, one of the most popular of Atlanta's dance orchestras in past years, and Frederick Jagel, Metropolitan opera star, who first suggested a grand opera career for him. This suggestion has been carried out after months of patient study in Italy.

Byron Warner, former director of "Warner's Seven Aces," Atlanta's own dance orchestra of days gone by, who left here many months ago to take up the study of voice in Italy, has at last achieved the ambition of a lifetime by "breaking into" grand opera and in the very home of many of the world's greatest compositions—Italy.

The news of his debut is contained in an article accompanied by a letter of explanation from a friend of Mr. Warner's received by The Constitution Saturday. The article is a clipping from "Il Resto del Carlino," the leading newspaper of Bologna, Italy, and contains an account of the opening of the spring opera season at Stradella with the presentation of "La Traviata" at the Teatro Sociale.

Mr. Warner sang the role of Alfredo Germont and his performance is described as excellent and he himself a perfect actor, gifted with an unusual voice that obtained magnificent effects in many parts of the opera. Others in leading roles were also highly praised, "much applause greeting all the artists both after their scenes alone and at the end of each act."

The letter of explanation which accompanied the clipping pointed out that not only were such highly commendatory remarks most unusual, but due to the fact that the Italian government limits the amount of paper that can be used in printing news, it was not possible to give a review of the opera.

Still another point that makes such a successful debut so extraordinary is the fact that Mr. Warner was not forced to "buy" his reception by hiring people to applaud him after the manner of an old Italian custom, it was said.

It was Fred Jagel, a star of the Metropolitan company, who first suggested an opera career for Mr. Warner and his course of study in Italy has been under Maestro Cataldi, who was formerly the tutor of Mr. Jagel.

RED AIR FORCES READY FOR ACTION ON SIBERIAN FRONT

Reports Declare Soviets Have Blocked Seized Railroad at Border and Closed All Exits.

FEELING RUNS HIGH IN RED CAPITAL

Chinese Continue Deportation of Russians and Prepare To Defend Frontier Against Advance.

Tokyo, July 15.—(Monday)—(AP)—A Harbin dispatch to the newspaper Asahi today says that international railway traffic across the Manchuria-soviet border has stopped and that the frontier is in a state of blockade. Red troops were said to be concentrating near the border and activity of soviet air forces was reported.

CHINA STRENGTHENS MILITARY FORCE

Nanking, China, July 15.—(AP)—The official news agency of the nationalist government today announced that military forces were being strengthened in Manchuria to insure continued operation of the Chinese Eastern railway, bone of contention with soviet Russia.

At the same time it was reported that the railway officers in Harbin learned through the soviet consulate that the Moscow government was sending a plenipotentiary to Harbin to attempt to effect an amicable settlement of the dispute.

"Meantime," the dispatch said, "every precaution is being taken to insure maintenance of the railway's operation, all soviet officials have been dismissed from their positions and the majority have been sent across the Russian border under Chinese escort."

"Three brigades of Chinese troops are taking up positions along the Chinese Eastern railway from Harbin to Manchuria on the Siberian border. Troops in other border areas are being strengthened. Eight soviet soldiers formerly employed on the Chinese Eastern railway have been appointed to positions vacated by the Russians."

"The belief is expressed in well-informed circles that in event of soviet negotiations undertaken to carry out the Chinese-soviet agreement regarding the railway's management the present situation will be satisfactorily settled."

ANGER RISES AT MOSCOW

Moscow, July 14.—(United News.)—A steadily rising anger tinged with distrust military and naval note rose in Moscow tonight against Chinese officials who seized from soviet control the Chinese Eastern railway in Manchuria and expelled hundreds of Russian officials.

The arrival at Chita of the first train of Chinese troops, which expelled, increased the flame of resentment. The train included 120 officials and four carloads of railroad workers, many of them expelled suddenly that their families are still stranded in Manchuria.

The capital was flooded tonight with demands on the government for decisive action in connection with an ultimatum which the soviet sent the Chinese government late last night. The ultimatum gave China three days to accept proposals for

Clippings Tell Story Of Schlesinger's Life

Scrap Book Shows Many Philanthropies and High Ideals

BY LOYD A. WILHOIT.

Small wonder that men and women love books, for think how closely books resemble life. Year follows year as chapter follows chapter, each writing in letters that can never be changed an account of our doings to ourselves and our fellowmen.

How many would feel content if it were possible for them to read the book of their lives with "Finis" inscribed at the end?

Yesterday I turned the pages of the book of a man's life, and reflected at the close that man—Harry L. Schlesinger, prominent and widely known Atlantian, whose funeral will be held this morning—must be justly proud of the chronicle of his deeds.

Hoover's High-Powered Thinkers Focus on Problems of Agriculture; President To Speak

Washington, July 14.—(AP)—The new federal farm board, created in accordance with the desires of the Hoover administration, will hold its first meeting tomorrow and make a start upon its momentous task of ending the depression that for years has gripped the great American agricultural industry.

The meeting will take place at the White House, probably in the cabinet room at the executive offices, and President Hoover will attend. As with the initial session of the law enforcement commission, the chief executive is expected to make a short address, summing up the things he has said in private to many of the members, and outlining in a general way the ends to be attained.

Facing at the outset a difficult wheat marketing situation, the board will meet tomorrow without representative of that branch of farming. The remaining vacancy is to go to such a member, however, and the president hopes that he may be able to announce his appointment within a few days.

After his address Mr. Hoover will turn the meeting over to Alexander H. Legge, of Chicago, who resigned as president of the International Harvester Company to become chairman of the board.

Proponents Will Fight Against Any Serious Changes Offered at Council Meeting Today

Annexation proponents in the city council Sunday night were prepared to defeat any plan to revise radically the already-approved city-enlarging proposal when it is reconsidered this afternoon to attach an amendment exempting the Chevrolet plant.

When the measure was approved on July 1 it went through council with a vote of 25 to 9, and since that time interests opposing its accomplishment have been working on a number of councilmen and aldermen with a hope of having the matter reconsidered in its entirety and killed. It is now believed, however, that the annexation opponents have given up all hope of getting conciliatory reconsideration.

The amendment to exempt the Chevrolet plant will be offered by Alderman J. Allen Couch, of the fifth ward, author of the annexation program already approved by council. Mr. Couch announced that in his original paper insisting to carry a Chevrolet exemption clause but neglected to do so. Little or no opposition to this plan is expected to develop at today's session.

Just what specific revisions in the present program might be asked by annexation opponents have not been learned, foes of the movement merely having indicated that they hope to gain some lost ground through revisions.

Mexican Church League Admits Causing Revolt Against Gil's Government

Has Kept Up Bushwhacking and Banditry in Central Mexico Three Years; Now Has Quit.

Mexico City, July 14.—(P)—The National League for Defense of Religious Liberty, which was long alleged to have supported the so-called Cristero rebellion, today in a manifesto to the nation admitted it had supported the movement, and declared the time had come to lay down arms and adopt other means of restoring the rights of the church.

Instead of continued warfare it called for national referendum to determine the will of the people in regard to laws governing religious activities in Mexico. Jose Tello, secretary of the league, who signed the manifesto, declared this to be in line with the statement of President Portes Gil on June 21 when he said that every inhabitant has the right of petition.

The manifesto said that the league resorted to armed force because all other means of defending church rights had been exhausted. Although it said that neither the Mexican Episcopate nor the vatican had anything to do with the armed movement, the league would respect the decision of the vatican and abide by the agreement made between church and state.

This agreement, however, was said to be an "armistice" to give opportunity for negotiations toward final settlement of the differences.

Referring to the three years of Cristero warfare, the manifesto said, "The experience has been a very painful one, but it has demonstrated that when impious hands touch the sacred rights of the Catholic church, storms are loosed and cataclysms result. The docile and pacific Mexican woman has changed from a dove to an eagle from a sheep to a lioness, to defend the rights of her faith."

The so-called Cristero rebellion has been carried on intermittently by guerrilla bands, chiefly in the central states of Mexico for three years. The government has termed these rebels "bandits" and "fanatics" at various times.

During the revolt that broke out in the north early this year the Cristero rebels were enabled to consolidate their positions because of the general withdrawal of federal forces. With the northern revolt crushed, the government launched a general offensive to clean up the Cristeros, which was well under way when formal peace was made between church and state.

YOUNG BOY KILLED; GIRL DIES IN AUTO

Atlanta more than a year, formerly being employed at the Sears-Robuck Company.

The body was removed to the undertaking parlors of the A. C. Hemperley Company at East Point to await funeral arrangements.

Three other accidents in which a number of persons were injured slightly were reported to and investigated by the police Sunday.

Mrs. C. T. Smith, of 480 McAdams street, and her four-year-old son, Alfred, received minor cuts and bruises Sunday morning when the car in which they were riding with Mr. Smith was struck by a car driven by Cleveland Jackson, negro. Smith was driving east on Fair street while Jackson was driving in the other direction. The smashup occurred at the intersection of Conally street.

Accuse Driver of Drunkenness. Jackson was locked up for reckless driving, while Smith was given a copy of charges by Call Officers Whitely and Watkins.

Mrs. J. C. McMaurey, of 1945 Tullin street, and her small child were taken to a hospital to be treated for bruises Sunday afternoon after the car in which they were riding with Mr. McMaurey was struck by another car driven by C. H. Simmons. Simmons was locked up on a charge of drunken driving.

The smashup occurred at the intersection of North and Piedmont avenues in which they were riding with Mr. McMaurey. Both cars were damaged slightly.

Another Motorist Held. As a result of the third Atlanta accident, Emory Deik, of 1372 McPherson avenue, is being held by police officials on a charge of reckless driving after a collision Sunday afternoon in which Mrs. R. D. Jones, of 540 Washington street, received minor injuries.

Deik was going east on Hunter street when his automobile struck the car which R. D. Jones was driving north on Pryor street, at the intersection of Hunter and Pryor. No one was injured except Mrs. Jones. Both cars were badly damaged, according to the report of Patrolman F. L. Holloman.

THREE INJURED NEAR WAXCROSS. Waycross, Ga., July 14.—(Special.) Three persons were brought to a Waycross hospital as a result of an automobile crash on the Waycross-Alma highway today. Several others are badly bruised and shaken up as a result of the smashup.

The injured are: Mrs. J. G. Sweet, Mrs. T. T. Lewis and Fred Sweet, two-year-old son of Mrs. Sweet, all of Waycross.

MACON WATCHMAN KILLED BY TRAIN. Macon, Ga., July 14.—(P)—William F. Whittey, 38, watchman night, was killed by a Southern railway yard locomotive as he was walking to work this morning.

A negro fireman on the engine saw Whittey immediately before the accident and called to the engineer to stop. The locomotive was brought to a quick halt, but not until it had hit Whittey and dragged his body some 60 feet.

Whittey's skull had been fractured. He had been thrown forward, face downward and lay between the rails. The body was not mangled. A coroner's jury reported the accident was unavoidable.

GEORGIA CHILD THOUGHT DYING. Tonnelle, Ga., July 14.—(P)—Little boy is held for the recovery of Christine Tyson, 8-year-old victim of a hit-and-run automobile which careened through here last Friday night.

The little girl is at a hospital at Sandersville suffering a ruptured kidney and other severe internal injuries. Meanwhile two occupants of the car which crushed the child, Charlie Brooks and his sister, Lucille, are being held in the Sandersville jail on warrants charging assault with intent to murder. Ed Hooton, the third passenger, was freed today when the automobile overturned near the edge of the road and was brought to jail, but is under medical treatment and police surveillance at the latter city.

MOTHER, FATHER, CHILD KILLED AT JESUP. Jesup, Ga., July 14.—(P)—Three persons met death today on Lane bridge road when an automobile occupied by Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Garrett, and their four children, plunged off Goose creek bridge into several feet of water, eight or 10 feet below. Mrs. Garrett is said to have been driving at the time. All were killed.

The dead are Mr. and Mrs. Garrett, who occupied the front seat of the touring car and a baby girl on the back seat.

Fleming Reddish, H. A. Gates and J. L. Hendry, of this place, traveling in a Ford, all died in the crash. A friend of the family, who was in the car, witnessed the accident and rushed to the aid of the victims. Mr. and Mrs. Garrett and the baby were found to be dead. Mrs. Garrett suffered a broken neck. Three of the children, two girls, aged 10 and 7 years respectively, and a son, age 5 years, were rescued and brought to Jesup and placed in care of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Westberry, of this place. The dead were removed to an undertaking establishment here.

LAUNCH EXPLOSION KILLS ALABAMIAN. Florence, Ala., July 14.—(P)—Mrs. W. F. Goodson, wife of the chief civilian assistant to the commandant at the U. S. naval base here, was killed when a launch exploded on a government launch in the bathhouse at Wilson dam.

190 KILLED, 50 HURT IN LANDSLIDE. Paris, July 14.—(P)—A Havas Agency dispatch from Ankara, Turkey, tonight said it was estimated that 190 persons had been killed and 50 injured in landslides that followed floods in the vicinity of Surnone on the Black sea. More than 216 houses were destroyed. The landslides were continuing.

TWO FLORIDA GIRLS DROWNED. St. Petersburg, Fla., July 14.—(P)—Two girls, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Darby, of this city, were drowned this morning while playing in the shallow waters of Boca Ceiga bay near here.

The girls, Ethel, aged 5, and Sarah, 7, stepped in a hole left by a dredge and sank before their parents, 200 yards away, could reach them. The body of Ethel was recovered 10 minutes after she sank, but efforts to revive her failed. The body of the older girl was found an hour later in several feet of water by men dragging a fish net.

The family had gone to the bay early in the day to hunt for scallops.

FOUR PERSONS DROWN IN BOAT DISASTER. Peoria, Pa., July 14.—(United News.)—A gay excursion on the moonlit Susquehanna river came to grim end early today when the old sidewheel houseboat Betty Lorraine capsized in midstream with 16 passengers aboard.

Four of those buried into the river were drowned, and but for the aid of several cottage dwellers on the shore who came to the rescue in canoes and motor boats, many other lives might have been lost.

As the Betty Lorraine approached its pier at Peoria, the engine suddenly went dead and the boat began drifting out toward the center of the stream, out of control. Panic seized the excursionists and they ran frantically from side to side, calling for help. In the midst of the excitement, while the passengers were huddled at one side, the boat succeeded in starting the engine again. The boat lurched crazily and went over, throwing part of its occupants into the river, while others were trapped in overturned craft. Some were trapped in cabins with water rising rapidly around them.

The screams of the passengers soon brought the rescuers to the scene, but not before four had drowned. Those who lost their lives were Benjamin Strocker, 43, and Mrs. Irene Voight, 28, both of Lancaster, Pa., and Dwight Clark, 50, and Edward Sellers, 25, both of Peoria.

FLYER BURNED TO DEATH IN PLANE CRASH. Birmingham, Ala., July 14.—(P)—One man was burned to death and two others injured here today when an airplane crashed into the back yard of a suburban home and burst into flames. R. F. Dixon, 35, secretary-treasurer of a wholesale produce firm, burned to death when he was trapped in the plane wreckage. The injured are F. C. Cornelius and Robert S. Horsley, pilot.

The plane's gasoline tank was said by witnesses to have exploded when the ship hit the ground. The ground was tell from an altitude of about 30 feet five blocks from the take-off.

Glenn Messer, owner of the plane, assigned failure to gain the back yard of a suburban home and burst into flames. R. F. Dixon, 35, secretary-treasurer of a wholesale produce firm, burned to death when he was trapped in the plane wreckage. The injured are F. C. Cornelius and Robert S. Horsley, pilot.

MAN DIES, WIFE HURT IN TENNESSEE WRECK. Jackson, Tenn., July 14.—(P)—T. W. Warren, 34, Memphis candy manufacturer, was killed and his wife was injured seriously in an automobile accident near here today. Their automobile, driven by Charles Sandlin, 19, of Chattanooga, struck a tree and overturned at Pinson. Sandlin escaped injury.

KENTUCKY MAN DROWNED IN RIVER. Booneboro, Ky., July 14.—(P)—Frank Perley, 24, thought to have been from Foreman, Ark., drowned in the Kentucky river here today while bathing at Booneboro beach.

Despite the fact that several hundred persons were bathing nearby, Perley sank unnoticed when he apparently stepped off into deep water. He was a drummer in the Booneboro hotel orchestra.

SEVEN DROWN IN CLOUDBURST. Moselle, Mo., July 14.—(P)—Seven persons were drowned in the Meramec river here today when a cloudburst descended on the party as they approached the Bourbon bridge and they were swept into the river, according to Carver Thomas P. Shaffer, of Union, Mo. The seven were members of one family.

TENNESSEE MAN KILLED BY PROPELLER. Erwin, Tenn., July 14.—(P)—Roger Showalter, 28, an electrician of Kingsport, Tenn., was instantly killed here today when he was struck in the side by the propeller of an airplane preparing to take off with passengers, when they reached Graciosa, one of the five islands of the central group and about 35 miles northeast of here.

One of the natives of the island today said, "Toward 10 p. m. a gray plane appeared and began circling around the island in search of a landing place. We attempted by means of gestures to indicate the largest field, which is fairly level."

"The alternative was suggested that the aviators might risk alighting on the island. We prepared to rush to the rescue in that event. The airplane headed toward the field we had indicated but suddenly barrel-rolled, hurling out the mechanic."

"The airplane had barely touched the ground when there was a great explosion, instantly killing the pilot. Major Kubala is at present in the hospital at Graciosa."

The Polish warship Iskra left here this evening to go to Graciosa to give what assistance it could to Major Kubala. The single cable connecting the island with this city was overwhelmed by the many messages filed. Sailing boats were pressed into service to maintain communications. It was expected that the officers of the Iskra would undertake an inquiry at Graciosa in an attempt to determine the exact cause of the disaster.

adverse winds that approached hurricane force and the French commander, Captain Dieudonne Coste, although the Azores lay much nearer him, turned back to France. He landed safely.

Engine Trouble. The two Polish fliers fought on. Their radio told of engine trouble and of constant struggle with the gales that threatened at any moment to wreck their ship. The Marshal Pilsudski was a land plane and their chief hope lay in reaching the football grounds at Horta which had been made into an improvised landing field.

The radio gave few details of their struggle and Major Kubala tonight was shielded from questions. It appeared that their plight was desperate when they reached Graciosa, one of the five islands of the central group and about 35 miles northeast of here.

translated commenting at length on their "wonderful achievement."

The fliers received a special dispensation which permitted them not to wear the evening dress with black waistcoat demanded by the protocol. Captain Yancey had on a dark blue suit and Williams a gray one.

Williams delivered two letters to the pontiff, one from Cardinal O'Connell and the other from the parish priest at Old Orchard, Maine. At the conclusion of the audience, which lasted a full five minutes, the pope wished them luck in any future enterprise and imparted to them his blessing, which was extended to "your families, your dear ones, and to all the American people."

Captain Yancey and Williams were eager for their visit with King Victor Emmanuel tomorrow.

Arriving at Pisa they will be driven to the palace at San Rossore in time for luncheon with the king and queen and other members of the royal family. The aviators today placed a wreath on the tomb of Italy's unknown soldier, in a simple ceremony without speeches or public gestures. Only a small handful of people were present.

Fly to Paris. Wednesday morning they will make a non-stop flight to Paris to have a reunion with Jean Assolant, Rene Leferre and Armand Lott, who waited at the palace at Old Orchard, Maine, for so many weeks.

The Pathfinder took to the air this afternoon that it might be seen over the Eternal City.

Williams alternated at the controls with General Balbo, secretary for aviation, and General De Pinedo, Italian pilot with several remarkable distance flights to his credit.

The start of the flight was witnessed by 7,000 officers and as the plane soared over Rome it was escorted by several dozen Italian planes. Yancey watched the flight from the ground. After the display a reception was held for the aviators during which hundreds of persons were presented to them.

The final event of the program today was a dinner at the Excelsior hotel in Rome, at which Premier Mussolini was host and the two American fliers the guests of honor. Ambassador Fletcher came to the capital in ones.

Secretary Balbo presented Yancey and Williams with gold armbands commemorating their flight. They are the first foreigners to receive this award, and only three Italians, De Pinedo, Ferrarini and Del Prete, have received it. It was awarded to Del Prete posthumously after his death in Brazil.

EIGHT LIVES TOLL OF EAST-WEST FLIGHTS. New York, July 14.—(P)—Major Ludwik Idzikowski's death in a crash of the Polish plane in the Azores brought to eight the number of lives lost in attempts to negotiate the east to west air trail of the north Atlantic.

On May 8, 1927, Captain Charles Hanger and Major Francis Coli started from Paris to New York. No trace of them ever was found.

August 31 of the same year Captain Leslie Hamilton and Colonel Frederick A. Minchin, with the 62-year-old Princess Lowenstein-Wertheim as a passenger, hopped off from Plymouth, England, for Ottawa, Ontario, and were lost.

Captain Walter G. Hinchcliffe and Elsie Mackay took off from Cranwell airbase, England, on March 13, 1928. They too disappeared.

Six other projected east-west flights ended in failure, but without loss of life.

N. Y. CROWD WATCHES FOR POLISH FLIERS. Roosevelt Field, N. Y., July 14.—(United News.)—A crowd of 5,000 flocked to Roosevelt field today to await the Polish trans-Atlantic fliers, Louis Idzikowski and Casimir Kubala, despite reports that they had come down on one of the Azores islands.

POLE KILLED IN AZORES CRASH. Horta, Azores, July 14.—(P)—The attempted trans-Atlantic flight of the Polish airplane Marshal Pilsudski ended abruptly in a crash on the island of Graciosa. Major Louis Idzikowski, who had spent two years in preparation for the flight, was killed. Major Casimir Kubala, his companion, escaped death by falling or jumping from the plane, but was seriously injured.

Any eye witness to the tragic ending of the flight said that the airplane suddenly rolled as the pilot attempted to gain the largest field on the island where he hoped to find a haven after a long struggle with adverse winds under the handicap of a faulty motor.

This observer saw Major Kubala hurtle from the plane as it neared the ground. The plane crashed and almost instantly there was a strong explosion in which Major Idzikowski met his death.

Taking off from Le Bourget airport near Paris, at daybreak on Saturday, the Polish plane had begun what appeared as a race with friendly French rivals. Both expeditions encountered ways as his guiding star in life. It showed that in 1908 he wrote an editorial for The Constitution advocating this city's first bond issue of a million dollars for a new city hall, better schools to train Atlanta youth, adequate sidewalks, paving and sewers. The movement he launched was taken up by this paper and carried to completion, and chances are that this first suggestion of Mr. Schlesinger's had a significant influence upon later and more pretentious bond issues that have played so prominent a part in making a bigger and a better city.

Mr. Schlesinger also was the first promoter of the Saturday half-holiday, inaugurating a movement looking to that end and waging a campaign to have the law passed.

The railroad workers presented Mr. Schlesinger with a handsome watch fob in token of their appreciation of his interest and activity in behalf of labor, and after the manufacturer gave further evidence of his concern for the welfare of workers by inaugurating in his factory the first definite program of social welfare work ever undertaken in the south.

In the great Atlanta fire of 1908 Mr. Schlesinger was a leader among relief workers, giving freely of his time, his energy and his resources to alleviate the suffering of the homeless. Before the Associated Charities was organized and functioning, he made it a regular practice with the aid of his personal friend, Chief Cook, of the fire department, to lead fire wagons of past years with coal and provisions and send them on the run to bring warmth and comfort and cheer to the city's poor in winter and in every emergency.

During the war his intelligent and sincere work in administering and conserving food was of invaluable aid to American authorities in charge of this vital department of national activity, and in many other lines of war work he took active part.

He was a member of the staff of Governor Joseph M. Terrell, a thirty-third degree Mason, a member of the Old Guard, an untiring worker in numerous Jewish relief and social activities, and in every way a generous, kindly friend to all about him.

Funeral Arrangements. The body of Mr. Schlesinger arrived here late Sunday afternoon from Asbury Park, N. J., where he died suddenly Friday night. Funeral services are to be conducted at 10:30 o'clock this morning at the residence, 781 West Peachtree street, by Rabbi David Marx. Burial will be in West View cemetery.

Mr. Schlesinger was one of Atlanta's industrial pioneers and oldest residents. Although he had been in failing health for some time, he was suddenly late Friday night just after he had arrived in the New Jersey city after an auto trip from Atlanta.

Georgia Guard Troops Reach Fort McClellan; To Begin Training Today

Intensive Program Is Set for 122d and Other Units at Regular Army Military Establishment.

Fort McClellan, Ala., July 14.—(Special.)—After a full day's ride through parts of two states and weary from unloading and "making camp," approximately 1,500 north Georgians tonight readied themselves for beginning Monday morning the annual encampment of the 122d infantry, Georgia national guard, at this federal camp. Under command of Lieutenant Colonel G. P. O'Keefe, an intensive program will get under way tomorrow bright and early in the great American game of citizen soldiering.

The regiment, requiring three long trains, left Atlanta Sunday morning at 8 o'clock and arrived about an hour apart here today, the first section arriving shortly after 1 o'clock. A special company of men immediately took charge and the work of unloading and building camp was started and tonight, at a late hour, pegs are being driven here and there, sergeants are bawling out less ranking soldiers' big trucks lumber through the darkness of the camp, mess equipment is rattling and every one tired and wanting sleep but eager to have this camp ready to "soldier" on schedule Monday morning at 5:15 when the first bugler toots and gets the usual cussing.

Many Veteran Troopers.

Young men from Atlanta, 800 strong, are augmented by about an equal number of Georgia boys from Forsyth, Elberton, Cedartown, Marietta, Calhoun and other points nearby Atlanta. For two whole weeks these national guardsmen, many of them seasoned and having more than one "hitch" of service, will participate in a training program that is regarded by instructors as one of the most rigid ever undertaken by a guard regiment in the south.

Early tomorrow the regiment will begin a five-day schedule of firing on the rifle range near the camp and this will end Friday with competitive shooting by individuals, teams, companies and battalion teams. The second week will be taken up in extensive maneuvers and staff problems calculated to give the officers a taste of near-actual combat.

Plenty of Recreation.

Under Captain Frank A. Kopf a program of organized recreation has been arranged and this will include baseball games and various track events. Atlanta merchants having donated many valuable prizes to be awarded winners in this program.

The instructing staff, composed of regular army officers, will include Captain "Wild Bill" Williams, Captain Alex Starke, and Captain T. C.

Gibson, the latter junior instructor of the Georgia national guard instructing staff. Officers have divided up the work of the camp so as to enable an expert in various phases of army work to supervise and assist in each undertaking.

SECRET CONSISTORY TO BE HELD BY POPE

Vatican City, July 14.—(P)—The pope tomorrow will hold a secret consistory, the first since 1870 held by a pontiff as free and independent sovereign. A public consistory will follow on Thursday. The two ceremonies will be the first of their kind held in the Vatican since December, 1927.

It was announced this evening that Pope Pius would pronounce an important allocation dealing with the record reached with the kingdom of Italy and with the new political situation. He will also name titular heads of several churches.

Only one cardinal will be created at tomorrow's consistory. He is the present Father Ildelfonso Schuster, abbot of the famous basilica of St. Paul's outside the walls, a learned Benedictine scholar. On Sunday, July 21, he will receive his Episcopal consecration at the hands of the pope himself, and later will be solemnly inducted as archbishop of Milan, the see held by Pius XI himself before his elevation to the papacy, and after him by the late Cardinal Toschi.

Father Schuster is the son of a former officer of the Swiss guards, of German-Swiss origin, but he was born in Rome and he will be counted as an Italian cardinal. His elevation will bring the number of Italians in the sacred college to 27, with the non-Italians numbering 32. The college will thus have 59 members tomorrow, 11 less than its full strength which very rarely is reached.

Abbot Schuster, who was born in 1880, has devoted his life to his ministry and to study.

BIRMINGHAM BANKS FACE STATE PROBE AFTER FIVE FAIL

Birmingham, Ala., July 14.—(P)—A grand jury in Jefferson county district court will begin an investigation here tomorrow into the banking situation of Birmingham, the probe being ordered after five banks had closed in the district.

The probe will be conducted by Attorney-General C. C. McCall and County Solicitor George Lewis Bailey. More than a dozen witnesses have been summoned and have been ordered to bring documents, letters, telegrams and other data bearing on operation of the banks under investigation.

Judge C. E. Thomas, state superintendent of banks, and liquidating agents of the City Bank & Trust Company and the Woodlawn Bank & Savings Company are included in the list of witnesses for whom subpoenas have been issued.

Officials have indicated that the investigation will not touch on the Southside bank, the Leeds State bank and the Woodlawn Savings bank, all of which were closed recently.

The Southside bank is scheduled to re-open tomorrow and the City bank within the next 30 days. National banks are being reorganized to replace the closed institutions in Leeds and Woodlawn.

ARBITRATION FAILS AND NEW ORLEANS RAIL STRIKE HOLDS

New Orleans, July 14.—(P)—New Orleans today passed its thirteenth day without street cars quietly while the Public Service, Inc., yet had made no announcement as to when it expected to attempt to resume service again, protected by federal injunction against striking carmen.

While no announcement was coming from the company, there were indications that service might be attempted Tuesday morning.

Meanwhile, subcommittees of the citizen's committee continued their conferences with representatives of the utilities company directors and carmen's union leaders. Government conciliators also continued their efforts to bring a satisfactory solution to the situation.

No statement was made following the conferences, however.

PAPER-SHELL PECAN GROVES ARE BOUGHT IN ALBANY SECTION

Albany, Ga., July 14.—(Special.)—Purchases of valuable paper-shell pecan groves in the Albany district, world pecan center, have just been announced. R. V. Burton, of Memphis, Tenn., and C. H. Warren, of St. Petersburg, Fla., have purchased groves and have announced their intention of moving here and making their homes on their newly-acquired property.

Mr. Burton bought 22 acres of 20-year-old pecan trees in Mitchell county, known as the DeWitt Pecan grove, located on the old Thomasville-Albany stage road. He also bought five acres in the Albany Georgia Pecan groves subdivision on the Dixie highway in Dougherty county.

Mr. Warren bought 15 acres of 18-year-old trees in the United Pecan groves subdivision on the River road, south of Albany.

IDENTITY OF GIRL SAVED FROM RIVER STILL UNKNOWN

Waycross, Ga., July 14.—(Special.)—The Ware county police department and local welfare workers, following several unimportant clues, have failed to find any information that will lead to the definite identification of the strange young woman brought to the Ware county jail Friday after she is alleged to have attempted to drown herself in the Satilla river, near this city.

The meager information given by the young woman, that her name is either Sallie or Martha Thomas, and that she has a step-father living near Charlotte, N. C., is practically all that can be learned of her.

The only development since her arrest is announcement of examining physicians that the woman is not mentally responsible for her actions.

Mabel's Successor Will Not Be Woman, Mitchell Indicates

Washington, July 14.—(P)—With the appointment of a successor to Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, the signed assistant attorney general in charge of prohibition, the highest executive office yet occupied by a woman, probably will pass to a man.

Officials of the department of justice are of the opinion that there is but a faint chance of a woman being appointed to the office which thus far has had only two incumbents—both women.

Two women are now on the list of applicants for the place, but neither of these is believed by officials to be a serious contender for the appointment.

KING WILL UNDERGO AN OPERATION TODAY

Surgeons Will Drain Abscess on Right Side of His Chest.

London, July 14.—(P)—King George this morning attended divine services at Buckingham palace, despite the fact that tomorrow he will undergo another minor operation which is expected to speed his recovery from his long illness. The operation is for more effective drainage of an abscess which has formed on the right side of his chest.

The operation is not anticipated with any approach to alarm. His majesty continued to pursue his normal activities today and, as usual, spent considerable time in the palace grounds.

It is believed there is a small surface of diseased bone at the site of the old operation which has caused formation of a new abscess and the present trouble. A medical bulletin signed by six physicians was issued last night to inform the public of the circumstances. It was said that no further report on the condition of the king would be made until after the operation tomorrow.

It was not revealed whether Sir Hugh Hodge, who operated on the king last winter, or Professor Wilfred Trotter would perform the operation. The latter is a distinguished surgeon of the University College hospital and medical school. Dr. Francis Shipway again will be the anesthesiologist.

As soon after the operation as possible his majesty will carry out his postponed journey to Sandringham, where he will spend the remainder of the summer.

GEORGIANS ASK NELSON M. SHIPP FOR HIGHWAY POST

Macon, July 14.—(Special.)—Approximately 100 south Georgians, including city and county officials, bankers, businessmen and state leaders, have wired or written Governor Hardman urging that Nelson M. Shipp, of Cordele, be appointed to the state highway board.

It is set forth that south Georgia in particular will be in need of active, vigorous representation of the highway commission during the next several years and that a still greater need is appointment of a man who will view the state highway system as a state unit and so work to build up the road system of Georgia.

Mr. Shipp was formerly associate editor of the Macon Telegraph and later secretary to Senator Harris in Washington. He has recently spoken in 14 counties on the highway situation and the proposed bond issue.

HIGHWAY FEE RETURN WILL FREE LAWYER

Waycross, Ga., July 14.—(Special.)—The Clinch county grand jury has recommended that the true bill found by it in March against W. V. Musgrove, Seward M. Smith and S. A. Sweat be nolle prossed on condition that $1,500 be returned to the county treasury.

When the true bill was found in March it was alleged that a $1,500 fee had been paid by the county commissioners to Seward M. Smith, attorney for the state highway board, as a payment for representation in a lawsuit to prevent certain mileage being declared part of the state aid system. This law suit affected the North and South highway through Clinch county. The only connection W. V. Musgrove had with the incident was that

GOVERNMENT AFFAIRS ON ATHENS PROGRAM

Second Week of Institute To Present Bond Talk by North Carolinian.

Athens, Ga., July 14.—(P)—Governmental, economic and educational affairs, as relating to the nation, states and counties, will be under discussion this week at the Institute of Public Affairs and International Relations, in session at the University of Georgia.

Arthur M. Hyde, secretary of agriculture, will head the list of speakers with an address tomorrow on "The National Agricultural Situation."

Another feature of Monday's program will be a discussion of "The National Election of 1928 and Its Effect on Southern Political Life." Two Georgia editors and three attorneys will lead the discussion.

Charles Ross, general counsel of the North Carolina highway commission, is on Tuesday's program to tell of his state's experience in highway building. Around his address will center a discussion of a question, "Shall Georgia Issue Bonds for Highways and Education?"

Sessions Thursday and Friday will include a discussion of school programs in Georgia, led by M. L. Dugan, state superintendent of schools.

He appeared before the county commissioners and asked that steps be taken to keep the Clinch county mileage on the state system. S. A. Sweat was a member of the board of commissioners.

No announcement has been made as yet as to whether Mr. Smith will return the $1,500 that was paid by the county. As a result of the law suit the Clinch county highway was removed from the state system, on the ground that the state lacked authority to increase the state aid mileage.

1840 POPULATION OF ATLANTA NIL, J. K. ORR SHOWS

Savannah, Ga., July 14.—(P)—Joseph K. Orr, Atlanta manufacturer, a passenger for New York today aboard the Savannah line steamship City of Birmingham, was enthused over the prospects of Atlanta's growing population. This is occasioned in part by his discovery of an old geography published in 1842 which belonged to his father, and which gave population by the 1840 census.

Mr. Orr pointed out that Decatur's population was in the geography, but he could not find any population for Atlanta. Savannah's, he said, was quite a respectable one at 18,000 while Charleston, S. C., was larger, than Washington, D. C. Mr. Orr got much comfort from the fact that if Atlanta takes in the contemplated scenery of additional territory it will have approximately 335,000 population, which would be about the size New York was when his father's geography was published.

THE UNKISSSED BRIDE

By BERTA RUCK

SYNOPSIS: Joy Harrison, living in London and working for Dr. Rex Travers in Harley street, is crushed by a letter from her fiancé, Geoffrey Ford, a well-known novelist, asking to be released from the engagement. Preoccupied with her own trouble, she fails to notice that Dr. Travers seems troubled, too. Toward the end of the day he tells her that he has just lost a great deal of money through an unscrupulous solicitor, and he will be forced to give up his house in Harley street.

Dr. Locke, a tenant, tells Rex that he has just been offered a practice with a comfortable villa in the south of France which he cannot take on, and he suggests that he recommend Rex for it. The only hitch to the plan is that they want a married doctor and Rex is a bachelor. To his partner's suggestion that he marry and take up the new post, Rex agrees. He tells the doctor's colleague, suddenly aware of a method of escape for her and she asks Dr. Travers if he will marry her on a business arrangement. The doctor hesitates, but her suggestion, and finally asks her why she made it. She tells him that she is badly in need of another job, although her real reason is to have Geoffrey read of her engagement to another man.

The doctor broods over the change his altered circumstances will have on his young nephew and ward, Percival Arthur Travers. Finally he decides to take Joy as his wife, and they are married in a strictly business basis. Immediately after the ceremony Rex, Joy and Percival go to the south of France. Joy enjoys keeping house, and Percival Arthur has the time of his life. Joy and her friends are interested in each other. Then the Ford, Geoffrey and his mother, appear on the scene. Joy invites them to her first tea party. Geoffrey renews his attentions to Joy and Rex grows jealous. Joy is no longer interested in Geoffrey, but a misunderstanding arises between herself and Rex which strains their relations. They are both miserable.

INSTALLMENT LXVII.

PURSUIT.

First stop, Livingston—that town of the broken bridge. That's where they'd make for. That's where he'd make for. Then what? Make a landing, he thought, as close as he could get to the Octroi. A landing on one of those huge meadows between the river and the road. Tell them the Octroi to hold up the first English car coming on from the coast. A car very shiny, with an English lady and gentleman; they were to hold up that car, not to let it pass.

"Important, urgent," he muttered aloud, "matter of life and death."

"Right you are," said the young Smithson at his side. "Here we are. They legged it up to where she lay in the moonlight, the immobile Moth, her wings were giant razor shells, like giant outspread milk pale arms. The boy was beside her, his hands busy at cords that fastened the engine cover. He seemed some page, zealously making preparations to speed his knight into the fray. Each movement betrayed his eager good-will; each movement his childish immaturity. During the minute or two that the engine was warming up, few words were exchanged. The Moth's owner, who had been busily helpful, tossed the boy a "Like to be going up again, to?"

An agonized sigh was breathed of "Uncle Rex? Couldn't I?"

"What's that? You? No, no, old man. Not this trip. Anyhow, the Moth only holds two."

Smithson asked, "Am I flying you, sir?"

Quickly Travers shook his head. "Going up by myself, please; got some one to bring back, you see."

"But you're not going up like that in the dress trousers and linen jacket!"

"Here!" He pulled off his own fleeced lined leather coat, his muffled, he huddled them upon the older flyer, then hurried to the propeller. "Gloves and cap in the cockpit, under the seat. Map there somewhere. Well, good luck, air, hope you find everything all right."

The night was filled with a soft crescent moon. The pale winged shape suddenly alive, moved swiftly forward. Left behind by the castoff covers there stood the younger pilot with the will younger boy who was not a pilot yet. They watched. Imperceptibly the Moth was no longer on the field; she was in the air, she was gone! Two faces turned up to the night sky, looking after her course, as her lights showed as diminishing stars.

Suddenly Percival Arthur made a gesture: raising fledging arms as though they could have been spread in flight. But it was Rex who had taken the wings. The boy's arms dropped to his sides, and away in the dark died the hum of the speeding plane.

And while, up there, she swooped through the night, two thousand feet somewhere below her blazed and sped Geoffrey Ford's car.

Forty, fifty, fifty-five miles of road trailed behind her as, unconscious of pursuit, Geoffrey drove with Joy Travers still fast asleep at his side.

"Could one," thought the irritated Geoffrey, "conceive of a young woman less appreciative of this situation?" Romance. And she still slept like a baby in a buggy.

At intervals during that rush through sleeping country, Joy had been dimly conscious of the fact that she was in a car, speeding relentlessly away from her home. At one moment Rex seemed to be with her; Rex took ing a rug about her, a, around now sweet, too sweet, too bitter sweet, whose awakening should have been in paradise. Joy had not awakened; after that blissful dream flash she sank into deeper slumber in which everything of her life had been forgotten. Geoffrey, resigned to his disgust, drove on, on. Presently he began frowning, less in anger than in bewilderment. For Geoffrey Ford, never of those who, even when not on an elopement bent, examine the condition and probable life of every atom of a car before starting on a journey, could not imagine what was now responsible for the behavior of his perfectly good 14-horsepower car.

Gradually, as the night was wearing away did she begin to slow down. Useless, Geoffrey's frown; his experience with the many gadgets; his struggles with accelerator and gears. Homage to the French language, which produces for these incidents the exotically quaint, and all embracing word "panne." The Germans say "pech." English, the language said to produce the most graphic of monosyllables, has none to describe bother with the car, whether due to engine trouble or to the fact that the thin platinum tipping disc on the head of the magnet contact breaker screw has come to the end of its appointed life. The car continued to slow down; Geoffrey to struggle in vain. Slower and slower she crawled along the road, finally, to a mutter from her owner, stopping dead.

It was then that, with a start, Joy awoke. Feeling cramped in the limbs, cold in the face, she opened her eyes, blinked, and, with a rush of misery, remembered.

Rex had told her she could go. She had driven to Paris with Geoffrey Ford. The car had stopped; was this Paris? She peered out upon a landscape, dim as objects seen through water at the bottom of a pool. This wasn't Paris. This wasn't anywhere. It was the middle of the country; all empty, chill and dim—and the car had stopped, and Geoffrey, stooping forward, was fumbling with this and that.

"Geoffrey?"

"Hello," he turned to her. In the car lights his boyish face was looking helplessly worried.

"Where are we, Geoffrey?"

"Good knows! Joy, I say, this is the most unfortunate. I am most frightfully sorry—something's happened. There's oceans of petrol, it's not that. I've looked. Something's gone wrong with the confounded car."

"O, Geoffrey, what?"

"There, I'm afraid," said the young man hopelessly, "is where you have me."

Motorists may be divided into two kinds, boys and girls. The boys have learned to drive. To the second class belonged Geoffrey Ford, whose driving was limited as his taste in upholstery and body paint was subtle, whose road sense remained elementary as his literary sense became ever more cultivated, and to whom a car would never be that complicated feminine personality of temperament, response, refusal, limitations, potentialities, achievement and receptive sympathy, passing the love of women which "she" represents to the driver born.

To Geoffrey "it" was a mere convenient mechanical monster, there for the purpose of transporting him swiftly from place to place. All was well that went well. If it went badly, then this successful novelist became the inferior of the rawest garage hand at any wayside petrol pump. As he did now. Not that there was a garage or a hand or a pump at that point of Provence where his motor elected to give trouble. There was nothing but, to the right a glimmering, vine grown slope that stretched skywards, and to the left, a great plain of corn land, sometimes checkered with black areas of plowing, sometimes gleaming stubble. Ahead and behind was that long, pale highway, the one thing about her that seemed to be still going, showing that they had been about there, and a half hour running, irrelevantly, the novelist's well stocked mind proffered a question from Hassan.

"The hour when young loves wakes on a white shoulder!"

The hour, Geoffrey remembered to have heard it once truly said, when human vitality reaches its lowest ebb. He turned again to the girl with whom he had undertaken this reluctant and most ill-starred elopement.

"Well, here we are; and here we stay, I suppose, until help comes along in the shape of the next car."

CRACKERS GET MACON OUTFIELDER

NEW SLUGGER TO JOIN CLUB ON WEDNESDAY

Cliff Knox Goes to
Peaches as Atlanta
Closes Deal.

By Ralph McGill.
Advices from Macon last night that the Atlanta baseball team had completed a deal for Al Lee, outfielder, and that he would join the Crackers Wednesday, were confirmed by R. J. Spiller, president of the Atlanta club.

In exchange for Lee, the Crackers will send Cliff Knox, formerly with Nashville and now on option at Spartanburg, to the Peaches. The deal was one which followed a conference Sunday afternoon, at a town a short distance from Atlanta, between the Atlanta president and an official of the Brooklyn club, which owns the Macon player. This deal was forecast in The Constitution of Sunday.

RIGHT-HANDER.
Lee is a right-handed hitter. He is batting .300 for this season. The new Cracker outfielder is playing his second year of professional baseball. He came to the Peaches last season from the Brooklyn club. He was signed by Nap Rucker, Brooklyn scout, after he finished his career at Mississippi college, where he was a star athlete. His 1928 average was .327.

Tom Rogers, manager of the Macon club, said last night that Lee would undoubtedly be a great help to the Crackers in their drive for the pennant. "He has been out of the lineup for a few days because of an operation for the removal of his tonsils. He will be ready when Birmingham arrives Wednesday, and I am sure his playing will be better than ever now that his tonsils are out."

FAST ON BASES.
Fans in Macon consider Lee an even better hitter than Al Lopez, who was with the Peaches last season. He is fast and has stolen 11 bases this year. The Macon management and fans predict a great future for him. No announcement was ready last night as to the disposition of Doc Silva, the present rightfielder of the club. President Spiller, however, was jubilant about obtaining Lee. For a time there were some hitches in the deal. They were not ironed out at the noon meeting but in the evening Tom Rogers announced that the deal had been completed. This was confirmed by President Spiller.

NO BLETCHEN DEAL.
The Cracker president also said that he had received no offer of $10,000 for Climax Bletchen. He has made the Brooklyn club a price. If they accept it they will be given a look at Bletchen next spring. This part of the deal was scheduled to go through Sunday but was held up.

"If Brooklyn claims Bletchen under the option they hold on the club, they will pay $10,000. They want to look at him next spring, but we have not reached any terms."

This offer was not made last week but was made yesterday at the conference. It was supplemented by long-distance calls to Wilbert Robinson, manager of the Brooklyn club.

This desire of the Peaches to give Bletchen a trial indicates that they will probably claim Bob Parham under their option, although nothing definite has been said. The deal was confirmed by President Spiller.

FANS LIKE LEE.
Reports from Macon were that the fans there regretted to lose Lee, but were glad to get a catcher. Rogers has been going along with four outfielders and no catcher of Class B ability. Knox is the property of the Crackers. He is at Spartanburg under contract containing a five-day recall clause.

The Crackers open a series with the Barons today which will continue through the week. The two teams will begin a four-game series at Spiller field Wednesday afternoon.

While the Crackers were strengthening their outfield, Dr. J. T. Selman, secretary, was in Chicago with Pitcher Joe Gaird. They will go before Commissioner of Baseball Judge K. M. Landis today. Washington and Atlanta claim the pitcher and a decision is expected following the presentation of evidence.

Student Boxer.
Eddie Mack, Denver lightweight, is a student at Regis college.

Ed Danforth

Ira E. Rodgers, head football coach at the University of West Virginia, has just won the state amateur golf championship.

That sets something of a record. I have been exposed to new reports for several years, but never have I heard of a football coach winning an important golf title.

As a matter of fact, football coaches form the only group as depressed in golfing ability as newspapermen. I believe if football coaches were admitted to a press golf tournament, their names would bob up in the sixth, ninth, tenth and eleventh flights right along.

Courageous.
Football coaches all play golf. They insist on playing golf. Why, none can explain; probably they play for the same reason newspapermen play. Yet no one ever heard of a football coach winning a championship of any sort until Ira Rodgers came through.

Dan McGugin, of Vanderbilt, is a delightful golfer. A. Alexander, of Georgia Tech, does everything wrong from tee to green. Mike Bennett, of Sewanee, tries and tries. Lewis Hardage is terrible. Bob Neyland, of Tennessee, is just fair. Josh Cody had the courage to quit.

The only two down our way who are pretty good are H. J. Stegeman, of Georgia, and Mike Donahue, formerly of Auburn. The Georgia athletic director, however, is not a competitor in state championships. Little Mike is now a club pro at Baton Rouge, but he does not play in tournaments.

I may draw down the wrath of several of these gentlemen in exposing their game and may be challenged to a duel with mashes at five paces. But then I could be mistaken for a football coach ANY TIME on a golf course. In fact, many of them could lick me.

Too Late, Too Late.
Blue Larkspur demonstrated his class as the three-year-old champion of the year by beating every important stake winner on the American turf in the big race at Arlington Saturday. Turf writers advised us of that.

Blue Larkspur won over a heavy track, scoring the ready-made alibi and surprised the Chicago public that had installed the filly Rose of Sharon favorite in the mutuel.

However, all this late season form of Blue Larkspur fails to save the disappointment your correspondent still carries over a certain race on another heavy track when the tardy Blue Larkspur failed to win the Kentucky derby.

It is comforting to the pride to see one's May choice sweep through a season to the championship, but no figuring can award Blue Larkspur the floral horseshoe that Clyde Van Dusen wore away from Churchill Downs.

The Long, Hot Trail.
Down the hot trail through the latter part of July and August, those who follow sports find just enough to support mild interest without overheating. No events in sight are calculated to cause apoplectic attacks or prostrations from sheer excitement.

This week will determine whether the Barons are to sail serenely on their way toward a pennant or whether they will sag long enough to let the others catch up and make a race of it.

The Crackers are elected to pull the chestnuts out of the fire for the Pelicans. The Crackers have six games with the Birmingham, two on the road and four at Spiller field. If the Crackers can trip the Barons often enough, the Pelicans have a chance to slip through on the rail. The Pels play six straight games with those terrible Mobile Bears.

Just now the Crackers are plying great balls with their pitchers spinning the ball as if they intended to emigrate in a body at the close of the season into the big show. If any team can jolt the Barons, that team is the one piloted by Uncle Wilbur Good.

Meanwhile, Memphis has three games at Chattanooga that ought to be easy, and three at Nashville that will be tough. The Crackers figure to stay just where they are.

Mild Interest.
The three-cornered race in the National league, involving the Cubs, Giants and Pirates, is creating mild interest, but strangely the rather dull parade of the Athletics in the American loop is dearest to the hearts of the populace. Everybody wants to know every day how the Athletics and the Yankees came out. Fans are that way.

Ringworms Calm.
The fight between James J. Braddock and Tommy Loughran for the light heavyweight championship of the world Thursday night in New York is being taken quite calmly down here.

Ringsmen cannot be aroused to anything like a temperature in the summer time.
The southern tennis championships at New Orleans bridge part of the gap. Otherwise there is nothing to do but stand by until Bobby Jones goes to California after an amateur championship and football practice starts in the southern conference.

Bobby Jones Shoots 68-69 at East Lake

Local Golfers Put in Busy Day on Various Courses as Tourneys Progress.

Bobby Jones, national open and national amateur golf champion, continued his sub-par golfing during the week-end on the East Lake course. He shot a 68 Saturday and came back with another round of 69 Sunday afternoon.

Jones was playing both days in a foursome with Chick Ridley, former state amateur champion; R. H. Gardner and Sherwood Hurt. Although he shot sub-par golf, Jones and Hurt lost both matches to Chick Ridley and Gardner. In both matches Ridley and Gardner were spotted eight strokes on Jones' ball only. Jones and Hurt lost the Saturday match by one up and the Sunday match two up.

A feature of the Saturday match was Ridley's birdie two on the 18th green which missed being a hole in one by an inch. The ball rimmed the cup and stopped on the edge less than an inch from the cup. It was one of Ridley's best drives from the tee in both rounds.

In the match Sunday there was nothing spectacular about the match except that Jones was playing unusually good golf and was making every hole in perfect figures. He went out in a 36, par figures, taking a five on seven and a birdie four on No. 9. His best golf was shot on the back side when he scored birdies on the 10th, 14th and 15th. He came home in a 33, three under par. All the other holes were made in perfect figures.

His card for Sunday follows:
Par out ..... 434 433 445-36
Jones out ..... 434 433 514-39
Par in ..... 434 455 443-38

Women Golfers Play Tuesday.
A one-day medal play tournament for members of the Atlanta Women's Golf Association will be held Tuesday over the West End course. The one-day tournament was scheduled to be played last Tuesday but was postponed because of the rain. It was postponed until this week.

All members of the association are urged to participate in the tournament.

Constitution Cup Won by Davis.
R. O. Davis, Jr., was presented with the Constitution trophy Sunday afternoon at the Vining Hills Golf Club for winning the 1929 club championship tournament.

The cup was presented to young Davis by P. E. X. Rogers, president of the club, and was donated by Clark Howell. The cup was won in 1923 by H. M. Stanford, Jr.

There were approximately 150 golfers in attendance at the tournament. Continued on Second Sport Page.

GUARDS GRAB THRILLER, 9-8

Christian Scores Winning Goal in Last Minute; Tolson Injured.

By Ben Cethran.
A rangy, blaze-faced pony, ridden by P. D. Christian, Horse Guard No. 2, brought the guardsmen a 9-8 victory over Fort McPherson Sunday afternoon in the best polo game that has ever been played here.

The Horse Guard won in the last minute of play when Christian and the blaze-faced pony—they call him Blaze—got out in front with the ball, made a spectacular carry and scored the winning goal on a long, angle shot.

The game had everything from accidents to thrilling play. In the fourth period Major Gus Tolson, McPherson's 2, was bringing the ball down the field on Pistol Pete, turned to the left to hit, missed and turned his mount to the right. Pete's hindquarters went out from under him and he went down, on top of Tolson. When poor pony goes down on his forelegs you can dive and roll, but when the hindquarters go down first you can only pray.

SLIGHT INJURY.
Major Tolson came out of it with only a twisted leg. After being carried off the field on a stretcher—much against his wishes, he came back and finished the game.

The great play by Christian topped a game that was full of them. Fort McPherson had started with a rush in the first three periods that gave it four goals before Gay, riding at No. 1 in a new Horse Guard combination which worked like a charm Sunday, began staging a single-handed comeback for the team and tied the score. Gay's first shot was a spectacular one. He dove into a scrimmage, took a healthy whack at the ball and went high in the air, goalward and between the posts.

He followed this up with an easy one after Christian had carried the ball down. This left McPherson ahead by 4-2 at the half ended.

FRANKE SHINES.
Horse Guard followers were hoping for a comeback, but Franke had been doing great defensive work for McPherson at the goal mouth and comfort and Tolson had led the raiding party that brought those four goals.

After the rest period, the Guardsmen continued their attack, headed by Gay and Christian, who made four and three, respectively, of the nine goals.

Minors Will Offer Bumper Rookie Crop

All Leagues Develop Young Players For Sale To Majors—Estimated Value Near Million.

Bob Parham's sensational showing in the Cracker outfield and his consistent hitting, which stamp him as being one of the finds of the baseball season, as well as placing a tag for something like $25,000 on him, is just one of a long line of lucky breaks that have fallen to the lot of minor league baseball magnates this season.

Though the turntables have not been clicking with the regularity and precision that the magnates love, many of them are in the same sweet-riding boat that is carrying R. J. Spiller. He got Parham from a Georgia Tech classroom for something like a stick of gum and a street car ticket and seems certain to peddle him for one of the highest prices ever received for an Atlanta player.

But Spiller is just one of many. This looks like a banner year for the recruits and when marketing time comes in the fall the minor league barons are going to unload upon their major brethren something like $750,000 in talent, all of which cost them the price of a few well-fitting uniforms and some heavy meals during the training season.

PELS HAVE STAR.
New Orleans has Zeke Bonura, a first baseman, who seems headed for Cleveland. Chattanooga has Dowling, Little Rock is ready to deliver its annual crop. That Bonura is going to Cleveland seems assured. The Indians have taken on the aging Joe Hauser from Milwaukee. It is understood that Joe is to pass on to another first baseman to be chosen later.

All in all the Southern league moguls ought to realize between $150,000 and $200,000 for the boys who'll climb the ladder this year.

The American Association, the Pacific Coast and the Western league, as well as the International, seem to have developed a record breaking output for fall delivery.

IN THE A. A.
In the A. A. silos are Buddy Parmalee, Toledo pitcher, and Joey Kuhel, Kansas City first baseman, both of whom cost their present owners less than $10,000 and upon whom Dick Meade and George Muehlebach are determined to collect nothing less than $100,000 each. Kuhel appears headed for Philadelphia to work for Connie Mack and Parmalee probably will wind up in Detroit. St. Paul has Dusty Cooke and Red Chapman, both of whom performed in the Sally league last year. Cooke is leading the league in hitting and is one of the most talked of ball players in the minors. Chapman, a third baseman, may be the man picked to solve all of Miller Huggins' worries next season. This league also boasts of Wop Cuccinello, Columbus second baseman. The Wop, by virtue of the Cincinnati ownership of the Columbus club probably won't figure in a spirited bidding, for he likely will be taken down to Redland to underwrite the Long Island A. championships.

Both Mrs. Hill and Miss Turpie did the 15 yesterday in several strokes under par, which is 82. Mrs. I. S. Haynes, St. Louis, was two over par.

This Boy Is Good.
John St. Lawrence, 16-year-old boy with paralysis in his left side, finished third in a strong field of three-mile runners at the Long Island A. championships. Continued on Second Sport Page.

OLDHAM HURLS DAZZLING BALL TO WIN, 6 TO 1

Silva and Parham Lead Barring Attack; Barons Next for Atlanta.

Crackers Ready To Slay Barons

Still just one game out of third place the Crackers prepared today to meet the Birmingham club in the first of six games. They will play Monday and Tuesday at Birmingham and return to Spiller field Wednesday and play through Saturday.

The Crackers are but two games out of second place and trail the Barons by seven games. The Crackers have won six of their past seven games. Their winning streak was four straight through the Sunday game at Chattanooga.

Chattanooga, Tenn., July 14. These Lookouts couldn't have seen Red Oldham with a telescope as the gaunt Atlanta hurler southpawed them in for nine weary frames, and the Johnston tribe took an artistic, very artistic, shelling in the one-day series, 6 to 1.

With two away in the first frame Shiner singled, Vick walked and Jimmy Johnston scored Walter with a ripping single to right. Those two hits spelled the only Lookout counter and one-third of the base blows for the entire game.

CATTERED HITS.
The locals got one single in the second, one in the third, one in the eighth and one in the ninth. Talk about scattering them, Red did nothing else but all afternoon. He likewise dispensed his three tickets to first in as many innings.

Not so with Johnny Singleton, the veteran right-hander, who did nothing but a flinger got a disgusting reception, he did. Silva, that pestiferous patrol of the right field corner, also patted one over the left field walls just as he came up. What a goodly wallop it was.

The next three went out in order and the Lookouts tied it with their afternoon's work in their half. But those Crackers wouldn't stay tied. With one covey of the Cracker off Singleton's glove in the second, Haley flew out and Jones lined one off Johnny. The Lookout pitcher seemed to be a magnet, drawing all the bouncers to him, but they were too hot to handle.

OLDHAM WINS GAME.
Then Red Oldham, in his own game, smashing a single to right which scored Lopez and Jones. Johnny tightened it for awhile then. For five full frames he was in there, trying to dent the home plate with their cleats. They got hits in the third and fourth but the runners perished on the paths. Parham topped a Texas leaguer back from the outfield and the Cracker was high gear ambling over the Cracker's poorly handled. However, he scored on Burrus' infield out and it was just as well.

TWO MORE RUNS.
Haley and Jones blasted singles to the outer gardens and Oldham walked. Silva stretched it on home by a bit of a double and Cullop walked. It was over after him, but the others obligingly filed out.

But Parham refused to be shut out for his day's scoring attempts. In the eighth he drove a beauty to right field and pulled up at third. He might have stretched it on home by a bit of a double and Cullop walked. It was over after him, but the others obligingly filed out.

Dashiell doubled to start the Lookout eighth but failed to see home. Paul Johnston singled in the Lookout ninth, his first hit since joining the locals, and Brock got a walk, but it was all for naught.

Weinert Huris No-Hit Game for Chicks; Macks Increase Lead

FREE ERRORS GIVE BARONS THE TALLY

Mates Rob Pitcher of Chance at Hall of Fame.

Memphis, Tenn., July 14.—(AP)—The league-leading Barons went hitless before the airtight hurling of Phil Weinert, hefty Chickasaw pitcher, as Memphis downed Birmingham here today, 2 to 1, in their single engagement.

The Barons scored their only run in the first inning on a walk and two errors. Sam Leslie, Tribe first baseman, who returned to the lineup today after being out for two weeks, singled in the third with the bases loaded to give the Chicks their two markers. Poor fielding by Memphis, especially by pitcher, Phil Weinert, who hit the left-center fielder through in fine style, Morrell was at his wit's end, but he managed to hold the Chicks to six safeties until he was relieved in the eighth by Slim Love.

It's Hard Hitting, Not Ball---Shibe

Philadelphia, July 14.—Poor pitching, harder hitting, but no better baseball! That is the verdict of the man who makes the spheres. Tom Shibe, of Philadelphia. Hear Mr. Shibe: "They are not about the ball being any livelier than last season or any other season since we put the cork center in it. The ball is not as good as the boys just slug like Ruth, Gehrig, Simmons and Fox."

Mr. Shibe says there has been no change in the ball since 1909.

U. S. CUP STARS MEET GERMANY

British Aces Bow to Germans in Zone Play at Berlin.

Berlin, July 14.—(United News).—In a dramatic climax to the European zone finals for the Davis cup, H. W. ("Bunny") Austin, slender, dark, and a German, was crowned champion with a cramp today and collapsed with his decisive singles match with Dr. Daniel Prenn, stocky, plump, German.

The collapse of the Englishman, at a time when his sturdier opponent led 5-1 in the fifth and final set, gave the German team victory by three matches to two.

Germany, therefore, will meet the United States in the inter-zone finals this week.

A gallant uphill fight by the English team, which had sustained two humiliating defeats on the opening day of the European zone finals, nearly brought off a victory over the Germans.

Keyed for a last desperate effort, Austin came back after a brief rest and carried off the fourth set, 6-4.

Dr. Prenn, unemotional and still strong, was in better shape for the deciding set, however.

CRACKERS SET SOUTHERN PACE

IN WEEK'S PLAY

Atlanta Club Wins Six Games and Loses One To Take Honors.

Memphis, Tenn., July 14.—(AP)—While Memphis and New Orleans engaged in an uneventful "battle for second place," and the league-leading Barons fell before the opposition, the fourth-place Atlanta Crackers strengthened their position in the first division of the Southern association by winning six games and losing only one the past week.

Johnny Dobb's Barons crew dropped five of its seven games, and ranked last. Memphis managed to win three and lose two in five starts, while the Crackers were credited with three victories and three losses in seven contests.

In all the eight teams battered out 435 hits in their 24 games, made 194 runs, including 18 circuit clouts and committed 55 errors.

Nashville, with a .500 mark for safe drives and with 34 runs, was tied for first place with the Crackers. The Peas, however, allowed the opposition seven less runs than the Vols.

Little Rock found it hard to score in its games, but collected only nine runs in five games, of which they lost three.

Opponents of Mobile found it harder to score against than any other team, the Bears giving up only three runs in six games, including one no-run game.

Chattanooga, which dropped four of its six games, held the third place. The Lookouts committed only three errors. The Volunteers and Barons fared poorly in the field, each amassing 11 misplays.

HOME RUNS. Of the dozen and a half homers, Nashville collected five for the most in that department. Atlanta came next with four. Poole, lanky Volunteer first-baseman, carried off individual honors by clouting out three four-baggers.

Others making home runs were: Brantley, Memphis; Anderson and Krueger, Nashville; Stacey, St. Louis; Carr, 2d, and Bolton, New Orleans; Rose, Little Rock; Parham, Collop, Jones and Silva, Atlanta; Pele and Vick, Chattanooga; and Mackey, Mobile.

The following table shows the number of games each team has played during the past week, including today, those won and lost, and the runs, hits, errors, opponents' runs and home runs.

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

BOB WHITE MAGIC.

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Magic is a state of mind.
Which to truth doth make you blind.
—Old Mother Nature.

Peter Rabbit was paying his usual early morning call on Bob White. Bob sat on his favorite fence post. He had continued to use that post even though Mrs. Bob had moved the family to another part of the Green Meadows altogether. He had done it for a purpose.

"As long as other people hear me whistling here and see me here, they will think that, of course, the family is somewhere about here," thought Bob.

And this is just what others did think—Peter Rabbit among them. Almost every day Reddy or Mrs. Reddy came over to look around in that vicinity. They knew that the nest had been there somewhere and so they thought that as long as Bob remained there, the family must be somewhere about, not very far away. This, of course, is just what Bob wanted them to think.

"I think you are mean, Bob White," said Peter. "I think you are mean not to tell me where Mrs. Bob and the babies are."

"Who said I have any babies?" demanded Bob.

"You've been whistling it every morning of late," replied Peter. "I knew the day those eggs hatched. I knew it by the sound of your whistle. Now I want to see those babies. Where are they, Bob?"

"What babies?" asked Mrs. Bob innocently.

"I can't say exactly," replied Bob, his eyes twinkling. "You see, they move about so much that I never know just where they are. All I can tell you is that they are somewhere around."

This was all Peter could get from Bob White. So at last he bade Bob good-by and started off. He wasn't looking for Mrs. Bob and her babies.

In fact, when he was some distance from where Bob was still whistling on the fence post, he had forgotten all about Mrs. Bob and the babies. He was thinking of other things. So you can imagine Peter's surprise when suddenly right almost under his nose there was a sharp cluck and there was little Mrs. Bob White acting as if something were the matter with her. At the same time Peter had a glimpse of a whole lot of fluffy little birds. But it was only a glimpse. Mrs. Bob was taking his attention. He looked back at her to see if there really was anything the matter with her. That second glance satisfied him that there wasn't. He knew that old trick. Yes, sir, he knew that old trick. So instantly he looked for the babies again.

Not one fluffy little baby was to be seen. He looked and looked. He rubbed his eyes. Not a single Bob White was anywhere in sight. He looked back at Mrs. Bob White. She was looking at him now and in her eyes there was a mischievous look. "Oh, Peter, how you scared me!" she exclaimed. "I didn't know it was you."

"Huh?" exclaimed Peter. "Well, you know it now. Where are those babies of yours?"

"What babies?" asked Mrs. Bob innocently.

"Now, look here," said Peter, "don't you try to fool me like that. You know I know that you had your family right here when I came along. I saw some of those babies. Now, where are they?"

"Are you sure that you really saw them?" inquired Mrs. Bob. "If you really saw them, why didn't you see where they went?"

"I believe some of them are hiding under you," declared Peter. "Oh, no," replied Mrs. Bob, and then hopped up in the air so that Peter could see that no babies were hiding under her.

Those 16 children had disappeared as if by magic. (Copyright, 1929, for The Constitution.)

Keith's Georgia.

The Georgia theater begins the new week today with Paramount's latest all-talking picture, "The Wheel of Life," with Richard Dix and Esther Ralston in the leading roles. The story depicts the romance and adventures of a young British officer who falls in love with his commanding officer's beautiful young wife. Dix, in the role of a dashing British officer, gives a finished performance. On the stage the headline honors go to Chamberlin and Hines, comedy dance team, who were the featured team in Ziegfeld Follies of 1927.

Loew's Capitol.

Buster Keaton's latest laugh producer, "Spice Marriage," fully synchronized with sound, is featured this week on the screen at Loew's Capitol. Although "Small Talk," the first all-talking "Our Gang" comedy, runs a close second for popularity, a kiddie revue, introducing some thirty of Atlanta's most talented juvenile entertainers, supplements the regular bill of Loew's Capitol. ## OUR CLUB—By Seckatary Hawkins

CLARENCE WILKS ASKED ME TO GIVE JACK HOWARD A LICKING BUT JERRY MOORE WANTS TO TAKE JACK INTO OUR CLUB. I MET JACK AGAIN TODAY.

I SAID, "FORGET IT, JACK HOWARD, WHY START TROUBLE?" HE SAID, "I CAN'T STAND THAT Sissy KID!" I SAID CLARENCE IN A GOOD KID? JACK SAID, "WHAT IS HE GOOD FOR?"

JACK LOOKED AT ME FOR A MINUTE, THEN HE SAID, "I HATE TO FIGHT A KID LIKE YOU, HAWKINS, BUT IF YOU MUST HAVE A SCRAP, GET READY! JUST THEN SIX FELLOWS CAME UP THE PATH."

GEE! I WAS SURPRISED! THOSE SIX FELLOWS WERE JACK'S BROTHERS. I ROLLED DOWN MY SLEEVES AND SAID "THE FIGHT'S ALL OFF!" JACK SAID "AW! COME ON, THEY WON'T BUTT IN!"

JACK INTRODUCED ME TO HIS SIX BROTHERS. THEIR NAMES ARE, AL, SAM, LAF, GEORGE, TIM AND PARDY. THEN I STARTED UP THE BANK. "SEE YOU LATER!" I SAID. GUY TILL TOMORROW.

WATERS RECEDE AT HUTCHINSON; LOSS IS MILLION

Hutchinson, Kan., July 14.—(P)—Conservatively estimating their loss from flood waters of Cow creek at a million dollars, citizens and merchants of Hutchinson today began a cleaning up that was hampered by the slow recession of waters from streets of both business and residential areas.

Finding an outlet in the southeastern part of the town into the big Arkansas river, waters in the business district had receded from six inches to a foot since last night and in the residential district had dropped a foot or two.

All rumors of drownings had been disproved today, although W. V. McConnell, a merchant, who for a time was reported lost, had a narrow escape from death when he fell into an open manhole while wading waist deep.

In the residential district many foundations had crumbled and the sewage condition was becoming a problem.

MARYLAND VILLAGE DRIVES OUT NEGROES

Princess Anne, Md., July 14.—(P)—Negroes were a minus quantity here today following a clash with whites last night, during which the former were driven from the town with clubs, guns, and bricks and other weapons following a fight between a negro and a white man.

The trouble was precipitated after the fight, when an ultimatum was delivered to negroes that they keep to one side of the main street. Sporadic outbreaks, consisting of missiles thrown from one side of the street to the other, were culminated when a white girl was struck by a bottle said to have been thrown by a negro.

It was then that the negroes were driven from the streets, and state police sent here to patrol the streets after a call from the local police force.

Whites have announced their intention of enforcing their demand that negroes cease congregating on the streets on Saturday night.

NORTH PLATTE
TO PROTECT NEGROES
 North Platte, Neb., July 14.—(P)—Negroes who fled the city last night in fear of mob violence will be given protection should they return, city and county authorities announced today. Not a negro was left in North Platte after mobs brandishing ropes had swooped down on the negro section, threatening exile or death to them, because a negro had killed a policeman. The negro later committed suicide.

Chief of Police James Dorran, however, said he did not believe the majority of the negroes would return soon.

"If any do return, however, we will do our best to prevent violence," he said.

It was revealed that county authorities themselves had released one negro serving a jail sentence and ordered him to leave town.

Although the entire police force and a large number of deputies, sworn in for the occasion, patrolled the streets of the negro section and the city until midnight Saturday, the negroes were not prevented from leaving town, and while the officers were on duty, three auto loads of men, brandishing ropes, invaded the negro section. The negroes had been ordered earlier in the day to "pack up or abandon their belongings" by a mob of several hundred persons.

Edward Green, the slain policeman, was shot and killed by Louis Seelman, negro, who was resisting arrest after refusing to leave town for mistreatment of his wife. Later in the day as other mobs formed, gaining in vehemence and strength, the negroes started fleeing the city, with or without belongings, and in a few cases abandoning their own homes. They fled by auto, train, bus, horse and wagon and afoot.

When their frightened exodus became known, a general rush to the negro section was started by merchants who had sold furniture and other household articles on time payments.

They attempted to collect the payments or claim their property.

Several second-hand dealers did a thriving business and nearly all negro dwellings were bare of any furnishings today.

DRUGGISTS HIT NEW AMENDMENT TO PHARMACY LAW
 Savannah, Ga., July 14.—(P)—Members of the Savannah Retail Druggists' Association have sent telegrams to the Chatham county delegation in the state legislature urgently asking that every effort be made to check the passage of a bill recently introduced to amend the pharmacy law passed two years ago. The present law provides that none except bona fide drug stores shall have the right to use or exhibit the title "drug store," "pharmacy," "apothecary" or any combination of such titles.

According to the interpretation of the bill by local druggists, the amendment would permit any place of business carrying a few bottles of patent medicines, such as headache powders and the like, to designate itself as a drug store. The bill is due to come up Monday in the house.

POINCARÉ TO WIN DEBT RATIFICATION, OBSERVERS SAY
 Paris, July 14.—(P)—Most of the politicians and diplomats who remained in the capital over the hot weekend that marked the national holiday seemed to be of the opinion that Premier Raymond Poincaré will obtain ratification of the Mellon-Berenger accord on debt settlements without reservations in the lower chamber before Friday.

Ratification without reservations by the senate later is acknowledged by even the most bitter opponents of this method of wiping out the war debts of France to the United States. The premier will not oppose the chamber voting reservations of budgetary orders, purely internal, after the text of an unreserved ratification is sent to Washington. He is prepared, however, to stake the life of his government upon "ratification without reservations in text."

MRS. MARY CHRISTIE DIES AT MUSELLA
 Macon, Ga., July 14.—(P)—Mrs. Mary Frances Christie, 68, wife of W. S. Christie, of Sarasota, Fla., died unexpectedly this morning at Musella, Ga. Mr. and Mrs. Christie were en route to Chattanooga from Sarasota, and had stopped in the peach section at Musella for a few days.

FORM COMMITTEE TO AID TEXTILE WORKERS IN SOUTH

Rye, N. Y., July 14.—(P)—Formation of a national committee of 1,000 members to seek better conditions for southern textile workers was decided upon today at a conference arranged by the United Textile Workers of America.

Mrs. Daniel O'Day, associate chairman of the state democratic committee, accepted the chairmanship of a body which will organize the committee for American traditions in textiles.

Mrs. O'Day, at whose home the conference was held, explained that the committee will aid the efforts of the American Federation of Labor to organize the workers in southern textile mills.

Mrs. Rose Schneiderman, president of the Women's Trade Union league, and Norman Thomas, socialist candidate for president at the last election, sponsored formation of the committee of 1,000.

Thomas F. McMahon, president of the United Textile Workers of America, and Edward McGrady, special legislative representative of the American Federation of Labor, described their experiences in being ordered out of southern mill towns by local businessmen during the recent labor troubles.

Mrs. O'Day announced that invitations to join the committee for American traditions in textiles will be sent to prominent people in the near future.

Cardinal Felicitated.
 Vatican City, July 14.—(P)—Cardinal Bonaventura Cerretti, more than eight years auditor of the apostolic delegation in Washington, D. C., and who revisited America in 1928 on his return from the eucharistic congress in Sydney, Australia, today received congratulations from Catholics all over the world on the feast of his patron saint. He was named for St. Bonaventura of Bagnoregio, a learned Franciscan who died in 1274 and was canonized as a "doctor of the church."

McVeigh, Ky., July 14.—(P)—Three men were killed and a fourth wounded here last night in a fight which police said started during a card game. Veto Depolis, Charles Casey and Dominick Galante were killed and Fred Depolis, brother of one of the slain men, was slightly wounded. Dimmy Topoka, at whose residence police said the shooting occurred, was held in the Pike county jail at Pikeville, and Butler Casey, brother of Charles Casey, was on bond pending an investigation.

HUNTER CO. SAYS SALES WERE SLOW

Hunter Manufacturing & Commission Co., New York, says: Sales of the staple print cloths and sheetings lagged this week. Wide drills and sheetings for the automobile and manufacturing trades sold in excess of production, and so did some of the narrow fabrics, of special character, for the converting trades. However, the feature of the week was the improvement in colored goods: in this division sales ran in excess of production for the first time in many weeks. It was the largest week we have had on colored goods since the middle of March. The curtailment that has taken place in gray goods mills has supplied the necessary and needed stimulus for a steady market on this class of merchandise in spite of the dullness. There has been little, if any, change in price on 36-inch and 40-inch sheetings for the last month or more, and print cloths are quite generally 1-8c higher than a month ago. More curtailment is planned for a week each month for the next three months. This fact should furnish a very strong resistance against further decline, in case we should have promising crop prospects and lower cotton, and will certainly pave the way for an advance if inquiry should improve by the end of July or early August as would be natural for it to do. Buyers have been attempting to place orders for print cloths and sheetings for very late delivery at prices current for near-by goods, but find the mills quite unwilling to listen to such propositions and, naturally, seeing that many current prices can only be met at a loss. Weather has been excellent for the distribution of summer fabrics and summer garments, but the temper of the trade remains conservative to the last degree and stocks are being allowed to run down to the lowest possible point. On merchandise of this character, almost daily orders with requests for immediate shipments are the rule.

STEEL COMMON GUIDES STREET

BY R. L. BARNUM.
New York, July 14.—(Special).—From long experience speculative Wall Street feels safe in being bullish on the stock market when Steel common is strong and active. Certainly Steel common has played a larger part than any other individual stock in creating the bullish market sentiment of the past month.

From its 1929 low of 157 1/8, touched early in January, Steel common advanced to 193 7/8 on March 1, in anticipation of the offering of stock to "rights" to retire bonds. In the May decline, Steel common sold down to 163. Assuming leadership of the market in the recovery in prices starting with June, Steel common sold this week above $200 a share, showing a recovery of 38 1/2 points since the May low.

For the first quarter of this year $5.04 a share was earned for Steel common after allowing for the preferred dividend. This compares with $2.11 a share for the first quarter of 1928. For the full 12 months of 1928, the company earned $12.50 a share for the common stock. Earnings for the business quarter who now will be given out after the close of the stock market on July 30. Informed Wall Street believes that at least $10 a share will be reported for the common stock for the first six months of this year. For the first half of 1928, the company earned $4.86 a share for the common stock. Informed Wall Street believes that for the full 12 months of 1928 the Steel common will earn nearer $20 a share for its common stock than $15.

Steel Advance Strong.
Steel common advanced from its low of 163 in May to above $200 a share partly on earnings and partly on expectations of something more for the holders of the common stock than the regular $7 annual dividend. People in Wall Street who have been right on Steel common in the past expect that an extra cash dividend will be declared before the end of this year, also within a year first by an advance in the regular dividend rate to $8 a year and then, by a stock dividend. Steel common has been right on Steel common in the past expect that an extra cash dividend will be declared before the end of this year, also within a year first by an advance in the regular dividend rate to $8 a year and then, by a stock dividend.

From the time the Steel Corporation was formed nearly 30 years ago, until 1927, the outstanding common stock remained at $208,000,000. The common and preferred stock amounting to nearly $1,000,000,000 and equally divided, at first represented water. Dividends were started on the common stock as soon as the company began operations at the annual rate of $4. It became necessary to raise the price of the stock in 1903 with the price of the stock dropping from its high of 55 to 8 3/8. The management then decided that no more dividends would be paid until a large surplus had been accumulated. This was accomplished in 1906 when dividends were resumed at the annual rate of $2. They were increased to $5 in 1909. The regular dividend rate remained at $5 until 1928 when it was made $7, but with the extra dividend the management's total payments running as high as $16 in 1918 and $10 1/2 in 1916.

Declared 40 Per Cent Dividend.
In 1927 the Steel Corporation declared a 40 per cent stock dividend increasing the outstanding stock to $711,000,000. This year, recently, the common stock was increased by 1,010,000 shares sold at $140, raising the amount to $812,000,000. In the meantime, the management went ahead building up an accumulated surplus. For the fiscal year ended December 31, 1928, this surplus stood at $417,277,000 not including $270,000,000 of current earnings over and above dividends used for improvements and betterments properly charged to capital account. The 1,010,000 shares of new common stock recently sold at $140 a share raised the fund, which will be used together with accumulated surplus to retire $271,385,000 bonds. According to informed Wall Street when the bond retirement plans now under way are completed, the management will start retiring $138,000,000 outstanding bonds of subsidiary companies, leaving the parent company and subsidiary companies free of any bonded debt.

In paying off the $271,000,000 bonds of the parent company, enough stock can be saved annually to add $1 a year to the earnings for the common stock. Dividend payments on the stock sold to retire the bonds will balance the fixed charges on the bonds with the saving of $1 a year for the common stock coming from elimination of heavy sinking fund charges. If the bonds had been retired before, $13.50 a share would have been earned last year for the common stock. The Steel figure that near $20 a share than $15 will be earned for the outstanding common stock this year, allowing for the current and the $13.50 extra dividend, is an increase of 25 per cent over week before last and of 30.7 per cent over the like week a year ago. Canadian clearing agreement $404,019,000, against $434,744,000 week before last, an increase of 2.5 per cent over week before last and of 30.7 per cent over the like week a year ago. Canadian clearing agreement $404,019,000, against $434,744,000 week before last, an increase of 2.5 per cent over week before last and of 30.7 per cent over the like week a year ago.

Noting Ahead.
With the $271,000,000 bonds of the parent company retired this year, there will be nothing ahead of the common stock but the $360,000,000 preferred now outstanding and the $138,000,000 bonds of subsidiary companies. When the bonds of subsidiary companies are retired, all earnings, after providing for the common stock, will be preferred dividend, will belong to the holders of the common stock. It took courage to buy Steel common in 1903 and 8 3/8. Charles M. Schwab, then president of the Steel Corporation, predicted in talking to friends when the stock got to 8 3/8 that trying days were ahead. Since then, his prediction came true; but those who held on to Steel common year in and year out have been well repaid in regular dividends and the 40 per cent stock dividend with insiders predicting that other melons will be bent in the not distant future. Since the death of Chairman Gary, who dominated the Steel Corporation, the new management has repeatedly shown that it favored a more liberal policy of distributing current and accumulated profits to the holders of the common stock.

58-STORY OFFICE BUILDING PLAN IS ANNOUNCED
Plans for the erection of a 58-story office building on the northwest corner of Fifth Avenue and Forty-second street, New York, were announced last night by Walter J. Rattenbury, one of the largest real estate operators in the midtown business district. The project will be financed by Halcyon, Stuart & Co., Inc., and Redmond & Co., and will place at this famous intersection the tallest building on the avenue and one of the tallest in the city.

The Business Barometer

BY THEODORE H. PRICE,
Editor, Commerce and Finance, New York.

In a recently-published interview Henry Ford is credited or debited with a statement in which he declared himself as in favor of a single power plant, which should embrace the power plants and resources of the nation, and later on of the world. He asserted that the result would be the universal use of power, and a progressive reduction in its cost.

As thus stated, the idea may seem chimerical to the reactionaries, but it expresses a generalization by which millions of Americans and Europeans are coming to be obsessed, and popular faith in it is growing strong. This popular faith may explain the abandonment of the cycle theory that was so generally accepted until recently.

Many books were written to prove that there was a periodicity in the rise and fall of business, and some economists believed that this periodicity could be scheduled with reasonable accuracy. But of late little or nothing has been heard of the "vicissitude circle," and the generation of the business cycle has been moving in the direction of a more continuous and steady growth. The world's affairs seem disposed to assume that combinations and consolidations through which production is controlled and cheapened will continue indefinitely, and that the result will be a constant increase in consumption.

Stocks Almost Buoyant.
Upon this theory the stock market was almost buoyant last week, and an advance to 9 per cent in the rate for Steel common was described by speculators whose faith in higher prices appears to be unshakable. The automobile manufacturers' markets were also higher, but their strength was due to the absence of sellers rather than to the aggressiveness of buyers.

The truth is that short selling and bear campaigns in either stocks or commodities have become very unfashionable. The farm relief bill is partially responsible for this in so far as grain and cotton are concerned, and the stock exchange traders who follow to campaign on the bear side have been so badly licked of late that there are few of them who have the courage to join in any assault upon values.

It is an anomalous position. The philosophy of economics as hitherto taught in our schools and colleges indicates that the character of the attitude of the public is overdone. But precedents are disregarded, and it is urged that we are in a new era.

Many, with Henry Ford that "history is bunk," and a stubborn faith in the continued prosperity and speculative enterprise of the country, are ready to believe that the future is bright.

Little for Comment.
This leaves but little for the conscientious historian of current developments. The yield of most agricultural staples promises to be adequate, and if present prices are realized for the crop, that will soon be harvested, our prosperity should not be disturbed by the adverse factors that are visible in the prospect.

SEARS, ROEBUCK CO. WILL PAY FREIGHT ON MERCHANDISE

Prepayment of freight charges on merchandise sent to customers in all parts of the country by Sears, Roebuck & Co., was announced today by R. E. Wood, president of the company. The new policy is effective immediately.

Payment of parcel post charges on merchandise sent to customers through the mails was announced last January by Sears, Roebuck & Co., and this policy went into effect with the issuance of the spring and summer catalog. Since that time all other large mail order concerns have followed suit and have adopted postage paying arrangements.

Paying the postage was tremendously appreciated throughout the country as evidenced by increased sales and the comments of thousands of patrons everywhere. With Sears, Roebuck & Co. paying both the parcel post and freight charges on mail order merchandise, it will be possible for customers to order from any part of the country by sending only the price quoted in the catalog. Figuring of rates, weights and parcel post zones will no longer be necessary.

Absorption by Sears, Roebuck & Co. of all carrying charges on mail order merchandise was made possible by establishment of mail order plants in ten commercial "key" cities of the country. Allocation of these plants was based on an exhaustive inquiry into every factor governing rapid and efficient distribution of merchandise throughout the United States.

Sears, Roebuck & Co. mail order houses are in Chicago, Philadelphia, Atlanta, Dallas, Kansas City, Seattle, Los Angeles, Memphis, Minneapolis and Boston. Years ago the company announced its 24-hour service on the delivery of orders to practically every part of the country. The next revolutionary step in mail order operations was payment of postage & freight on articles, which was followed by the company's new policy of paying freight on all other merchandise.

The very night Tarzan became chief of the Waziri, the woman he loved lay shipwrecked in a tiny craft a thousand miles to the west of him. A terrific impact with a half-submerged derelict sank Lord Tennington's yacht almost before the lifeboats could be launched. Day dawned, finding Jane filled with alarm.

They had no food and but little water! So on the first day of their tragic adventure suffering began in grim earnest. Days passed and the full horrors of shipwreck were upon them. Weak and helpless, they lay beneath the pitiless tropic sun with parched lips and swollen tongues waiting for the death they were beginning to crave.

One sailor expired in frightful convulsions. Another's eyes held the glaze of insanity, and the third, crazed with suffering, hurled himself with an awful scream overboard. Long since, the girl had lost consciousness. Clayton, too weak to move, still guarded the precious water. As the moon rose, his startled eyes beheld a hideous figure creeping stealthily towards him.

Sole Purpose of Shoe Tariff Is To Raise Price in U. S., Democratic Speaker Charges

With No Foreign Competition, Manufacturers Seek Imposit of 20 Per Cent To Increase Profits

Washington, July 14.—(AP)—The republican-democratic controversy on the tariff continued today, Senator Goff, republican, West Virginia, and Representative Mansfield, democrat, Texas, entering the public arena to declare that the tariff is a device to increase the price of shoes in this country.

"The same charge was made in 1922 and was answered by Mr. Hoover in the 1922 campaign," said the West Virginian. "The shoe industry of the United States is not in a position to raise the price of shoes, and the tariff is a device to increase the price of shoes in this country."

"The business men of all nations buy where they can buy to the best advantage and where they can obtain the best goods at the best terms, regardless of tariffs. Economic and commercial history proves this. The American tariff of 1922 raised import duties, yet the volume of our sales to foreign countries and our purchases from such markets increased."

"Says Farmers Want Tariff."

"President Hoover, when secretary of commerce, pushed American sales in foreign countries beyond all previous records, and in the face of highly protective tariffs, all of which were highly protective. He demonstrated that a tariff does not ruin or even check our foreign trade. If this is true, and it is, then the tariff is a device to increase the price of shoes in this country."

"The tariff of 1922 raised import duties, yet the volume of our sales to foreign countries and our purchases from such markets increased."

Holmes Denounces Asceticism From Pulpit, Defends Sex

FAMOUS MINISTER ASKS EASY DIVORCE

BY SAM LOVE.
United News Staff Correspondent.
New York, July 14.—(United News)—Sex—the universal gift or affliction—found a champion in unexpected quarters today when the Rev. John Haynes Holmes, one of the few New York pastors listed in "Who's Who," spoke eloquently in favor of greater sex freedom from the pulpit of his fashionable Park Avenue church.

Mr. Holmes, at intervals in his sermon, reached almost lyric heights in praising the sex instinct as both beautiful and natural. He accused the "pious" church of "an ugly sin" in cultivating asceticism. The minister urged his congregation to enjoy their sex life untrammelled by any fears that too much zeal might injure their spiritual chances.

"I have no use for asceticism in sex relations," said Mr. Holmes. "The expression of the sex instinct is as unwise and wrong on the one side as gross and sensual indulgence on the other."

"The Christian church is guilty of a monstrous sin in having cultivated asceticism and repression with a view to the attainment of a higher life. It is a sin because it is a denial of the fact that there is something in sex which is good and which is a part of our nature. It is a sin because it is a denial of the fact that sex is as beautiful as it is."

FLORIDA'S NEW GAS TAX GOES TO COURT TODAY

Tallahassee, Fla., July 14.—(AP)—Unless some unforeseen last minute postponement occurs, portions of Governor Doyle E. Carlton's tax laws of the 1929 legislature will go to the state supreme court today for a legal test as to their constitutionality.

Circuit Judge E. C. Love, of Quincy, is scheduled to hear oral arguments from John E. Matthews, Jacksonville, and Ernest Amos and Treasurer W. V. Knott, the defendants, on an application for an injunction, sought by Matthews to restrain collection of three cents of the five-cent tax.

Mr. Matthews' suit questions the constitutionality of those provisions of the five-cent gas tax, which apply to the five cents of the proposed liquidation of a road and bridge bond indebtedness of the various counties of approximately $100,000,000 and of another cent to be divided equally among the counties for the common schools.

Matthews contends that the diversion of state taxes to pay county debts is in violation of constitutional provisions, and that the basic law also provides for the distribution of school funds on the basis of the average daily attendance, instead of equally.

NEW INDIAN TRIBE FOUND IN CANADA WHEN PLANE LANDS

Sioux Lookout, Ont., July 14.—(AP)—The forced landing of an airplane on Weagmow lake resulted in the discovery of a band of Windigo Indians, whose existence never before had been suspected.

Mr. Cain, who is confined to a hospital here by acute rheumatism, was believed to have been brought about by altered living conditions, flow to the Patricia district to complete negotiations for the last of the unceded Indian territory in Canada. On the return trip, the plane was forced to land on Weagmow lake by shortage of gas.

Before another plane arrived with gasoline, Mr. Cain found the band of Indians and met the chiefs.

SHOOTING DRY RAIDERS SEEK LIBERTY ON BOND

Tecumseh, Okla., July 14.—(AP)—An effort to gain their liberty on bond will be made tomorrow by a federal prohibition enforcement officer and an "undercover" side now in the state district court on murder charges in connection with the slaying of a Tulsa farmer in a liquor raid on July 4, J. B. Dudley, defense attorney, said today.

The two men—W. W. Thompson, prohibition agent, and Jeff Harris, deputized assistant—yesterday were bound over for trial in the state court for the killing of James Harris, tenant farmer, who was slain here, and Owen Lowery, his brother-in-law and a neighboring farmer. Both farmers were World War veterans and were given military funerals by the American Legion.

At the conclusion of the preliminary hearing Thompson and Jeff Harris were ordered held without bail pending trial, which probably will be in the fall; but as this order was made by J. Dutton, Justice of peace, who conducted the hearing, the defendants were released on $10,000 bond with the district court.

No defense testimony was offered at the preliminary hearing. Mrs. James Harris, widow of the slain farmer, was the state's principal witness. She testified that Jeff Harris killed both her husband, Lowery, and his brother as they stood unarmed and with hands uplifted. Several witnesses said the so far as they knew, James Harris never touched liquor or kept any on his farm. No liquor was found by the raiders.

Murder charges which had been filed against John Williams and Tom Little, two other "undercover" men, who accompanied Thompson and Jeff Harris at the time of the shooting, were dismissed at the hearing after little evidence had been produced to link them with the killings.

THIEF WHO ROBBED KING IS CAUGHT; KNIFE RESTORED

Brussels, July 14.—(United News)—The thief who robbed a king was captured tonight by the Belgian police and his gold-plated knife and his watch were restored to him.

The Russian arrested Alexander Ichen, a Russian, on charges of robbing King Albert while his majesty was in bathing near Ostend. The thief entered the bathroom and took most of the king's belongings.

The knife and watch were found on Ichen, but identification papers had been destroyed and the gold watch and chain which had belonged to the king were resting in a pawn shop—the Russian having exchanged them for a ticket.

BOULEVARD WIDENED NEAR THOMASVILLE

Thomasville, Ga., July 14.—(Special.)—The road forces of Thomas county have started work on Pine Tree boulevard drive, 14 miles in length, that circles Thomasville. It is the purpose of the county commissioners to have the road forces widen this road to standard width, provide owners of contiguous property with donated land for the additional right of way and to put it in first-class condition.

FERTILIZER PLANT BEGINS NEW ANNEX

Valdosta, Ga., July 14.—(Special.)—Work was started this week on a large addition to the buildings of the plant for the Georgia Fertilizer Company in the western part of the city. The new building will be almost as large as the original main building of the plant. The concrete foundations were completed during the week-end.

WEST POINT SEEKS WARRIORS' PICTURES

Portraits of Eight Generals Needed for Historic Collection

West Point, N. Y., July 14.—(AP)—United States Military academy authorities today announced they had experienced difficulty in obtaining portraits or photographs of eight of the academy's graduates, although the eight were generals and held important posts during the Civil War.

The academy officials desire to complete a collection of portraits in Memorial hall but have been unable to locate relative or friends of the generals who might furnish likenesses from which the portraits could be copied.

The eight generals, all of whom served also in the Mexican War and died years ago, were:

Don Carlos Buell, who commanded the Union forces at the battle of Shiloh; Samuel R. Curtis, commander of the army of the southwest during the Civil War; Frederick Steele, who commanded a division at Vicksburg; William B. Franklin, who led troops at Bull Run, Malvern Hill and Antietam; Nathaniel Lyon, killed at the battle of Wilson's Creek, Mo., in 1861; John G. Foster, who assisted in the defense of Fort Sumter; Dennis N. Couch, made a major general by Lincoln for meritorious service; and Gordon Granger, who commanded the 13th army corps.
